MERRY CHRISTMAS

Meet Your Professors

Mrs. Grace Kindred, assistant professor of home economics, was born and reared in southern Indiana. The daughter of a minister, she early became acquainted with the realm of homemaking through working on the family's farm.

Home economics has not always been Mrs. Kindred's major interest. While attending old Olivet, she specialized in music and received a fine arts degree in piano.

Leaving old Olivet, she went to Indiana University where she received her A.B. degree. Qualified to teach music, English, home economics, French and science, she began her teaching career.

In 1943 she graduated from Purdue University with a master's degree in home economics specializing in child development.

Soon after receiving her master's degree, she was married and moved out West. She spent nine years teaching in the public schools of Arizona. Moving to California, she spent two and one half years teaching in a Nazarene day school. Located in San Bernadino, this school was the first Nazarene day school organized in the denomination.

In 1956 the family returned to Indiana. Here Mrs. Kindred continued her public school teaching.

Coast Guard Wants Officers

Successful candidates will be commissioned as Ensigns in the Coast Guard Reserve upon graduation. They will be required to complete three years on active duty after receiving their commission.

To qualify, the men must be between 21 and 26 years of age and must be college graduates or seniors who will graduate before February 13, 1966.

The officer candidates will receive 17 weeks of intensive, highly specialized training in navigation, seamanship, gunnery, damage control, anti-submarine warfare and other subjects.

In addition graduates will be eligible for flight training.

The newly commissioned ensigns will join the 3,000 Coast Guard officers who serve world-wide in a variety of interesting duties. These duties include oceanography, search and rescue, law enforcement, and merchant marine safety.

For complete information write Commandant (PTP-2), U.S. Coast Guard, Washington, D.C., 20226.

In commenting on Olivet's Home Economics Department, Mrs. Kindred said that the department is well equipped. However, she would like to see an increase in the enrollment of the department. She feels the church and the pastorate can benefit from the training offered in the area of home economics.

In her associations with others, Mrs. Kindred has tried to follow the admonition found in Colossians 4:6—"Let your speech be always with grace, seasoned with salt. . ."

Christmas Everlasting Hope

Christmas is music! The most beautiful music concerning a New Life born into the world.

Christmas is the magnifying of all that is true and lovely in the home. For into a home where genuine love shined brightly Christ came. It was love that gave Him. It was love that received Him.

Christmas is the giving of gifts and the receiving of gifts. And all made significant since the Gift of God came to the manger. To receive the Son of God into our hearts is to know of a transforming power that purifies the nature of both giving and receiving.

Christmas is peace! Peace that is the ideal and the promise born of the sovereign love of God. Peace that is a reality when Christ enters into individual hearts to save from sin.

Christmas is a message! It is a message to be told by Shepherds, by Wisemen and by all who have found the Christ. It is not just a word that may or may not be told it is a word that must be the light that shines from the hill, the good news which must be shouted from the mountain top.

Olivet's Peace Corps?

Last spring Olivet played host to the Second Annual Nazarene Student Leadership Conference. The following resolutions concerning a "Nazarene Peace Corps" were drawn up and sent to Dr. E.S. Phillips, Executive Secretary of the Department of World Missions.

"We, the Nazarene Student Leadership Conference of 1965, are strongly in favor of the establishment of a program

"(1) which would involve interested college students in a mission program as assistants to missionaries on a specific field for at least the length of a summer,

"(2) the participants of which would be interested students specifically volunteering.

"(3) the work assignments of which would be based on specific requests from missionaries,

"(4) which would include a brief training term previous to leaving for the field to familiarize students with what they can expect on the field and to guard against culture shock,

"(5) which might be operated without any subsidy from the church, expecting each student to pay his own way, or which might be subsidized by the church to help defray transportation and living expenses; preferably the latter of these alternatives, but, if necessary, the former,

"(6) the primary purposes of which would be to alleviate the burdens of menial, unspecialized tasks which missionaries have, to allow possible future missionaries to clarify their calls—

"(7) which might, in the case of college graduates, be extended for a period lasting longer than just one summer.

"We recognize the presence of numerous obstacles standing in the way of such a program and the interest, both present and potential, which may be found at our Nazarene colleges in such a program. We urge that attempts be made to iron out these obstacles and to implement such a program and that such procedures be accompanied by a sense of urgency."—from the Reveille Echo as quoted in Conquest, November 1965.

Jobs For Students in Europe

Twelve groups, each containing twenty to thirty selected American college students, will form seminars in various European cities next summer to study the language, culture and civilization of these countries during a nine-week stay. Designed for the serious student who does not plan to see all of Europe in a short summer, Classrooms Abroad tries to give him a more profound experience through a summer of living in Europe.

Graded classes in small sections of six to ten students, each under the supervision of American and native professors, will deal with the reading of classical and modern texts, the daily press, contemporary problems, conversation and composition, pronunciation and grammar. Students will also hear lectures on history and literature and meet with outstanding personalities. They will have full auditing privileges at the university in each of the selected towns and cities and will participate in all academic and social activities.

Members of classrooms Abroad will live with private families in each city, eat many of their meals with their hosts and share the activities of their sons and daughters. They will have ample opportunities to meet young people from student, religious, and political organizations. Regular attendance at theaters, concerts, and movies as well as visits to museums, libraries, factories, youth organizations, and other points of interest are included in the program. Each group will follow its seven-week stay in a city or town with an optional two-week tour of German, French, Spanish, or Italian areas. Since most programs end in Mid-August, participants have a chance to remain in Europe for private travel after the program.

"We have found through many years of experience that it is quite possible, even if you don't know a word of the language, to learn more than a year's worth of college German, French, Spanish, or Italian in the course of a summer", says Dr. Hirschbach, Director of Classrooms Abroad, "provided that we get serious and mature students who are willing to mix business with pleasure". Dr. Hirschbach, who also heads the German-language groups, teaches at the Uni- and Spanish groups will be directed by John K. Simon, Professor of French and English at the University of Illinois and Robert E. Kelsey, member of the Romance Languages Department at Yale. The Italian group will be led by Charles Affron of Brandeis University. Classrooms Abroad, now in its ninth year, has grown from eleven students in 1956 to an anticipated three hundred in 1966. Its former students represent some two hundred American colleges.

Full information can be obtained by writing to Classrooms Abroad, Box 4171 University Station, Minneapolis, Minnesota 55414.

An Ice Rink!

Soon the students at ONC will be able to whiz around a new 100' x 200' ice skating rink. By action of the Student Council at the December 2 meeting, the Associated Students organization has been authorized to spend up to $500 on the project. The funds will come from the $20 Activity Fee charged each student per semester.

The rink will be complete with lights and perhaps a warming shanty. It will probably be located on the athletic field and be up by the time students return from Christmas Vacation.

Editorial

It is important that all of us realize that when we give a gift it should include a part of ourselves in it. If all we are doing is giving just to be part of the act, then we have missed the best part of the season.

To try and write of such a forceful event in the history of man makes one stop and ponder. What can one say that has not been expressed much better sometime over the last 2,000 years.

Each age must seek its own and make its own attempts at expressing the greatness of a love that would cause God to express Himself in such an act of love.

At this season many of us will look back with longing to the proclamation "Peace on earth." It would certainly come if all men everywhere realized the significance of this season.

The best gift we can give this year is an opportunity to know the Giver of peace.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor

College students on campuses throughout the United States have recently been the major topic of many conversations and editorial opinions. Stories of draft-card burnings and demonstrations against the war in Viet Nam have been in almost every newscast and newspaper since President Johnson announced the step-up of the draft this past summer. It would seem from these reports that American college students are quite un-American and unpatriotic.

However from a recent news item it has been shown that it is only a small minority of college students who are involved in these demonstrations. The student bodies of the University of Illinois and Indiana University have shown that the majority of college students are loyal, red-blooded Americans.

"Bleed-ins" is the terminology that the students have given to their project of donating blood. Not "sitdowns" or "sit-ins" as we have heard of before, but "bleed-ins". Although donating blood is not something new, (Olivet too has

Have you ever stood in line at the book store the first of a semester?

Have you ever stood in line to get a book only to learn later that it is no longer used?

Do you now have several books on hand just because you failed to contact one who needs them?

Have you ever purchased a book and learned later that there are several used ones for sale on campus?

been very active in this program) this blood project is "extra" special. This blood is being flown to soldiers wounded in the fight in Viet Nam.

The student body president of Indiana University reports that their blood drive has been a great success. According to the president, "only fifteen or twenty" of the huge student body has failed to take part in this project.

Olivet has always been quite faithful in helping Kankakee County meet her quota. Since this is no new project to us, I would like to suggest that, as soon as our student body has recuperated from the last visit of the bloodmobile, we have a "bleed-in".

I can think of no better way for Olivet to show her patriotism and Christian love. Of course, no one has ever heard of Olivet Nazarene College having a demonstration or a draft-card burning, but this is only the negative aspect of our reputation. Let's Be Positive! We did a good job of helping Kankakee County meet her deficit last year, but let's not rest on our laurels. We need to show, not only Kankakee but the rest of our nation that we are patriotic Americans, and more than that, Christians who profess and practice charity!

If secular colleges such as the University of Illinois and Indiana University can respond in such a marvelous way, why shouldn't we? Need I say more?

Viet Nam

By Duane Clinker

Men are dying in a war. Our nation has committed its forces to the struggle for the expulsion of terrorism from the countryside of South Vietnam. The decision was made so that Communist aggression in this small, but very important country might be checked. Vietnam appears to be a test of the new Communist tactic called war of "national liberation." It is now, at the first open confrontation with this technique that the challenge must be met.

Now that our military power has been committed, there can be no turning back without disastrous defeat. To lose or to withdraw from Vietnam would be to say to the nations of the world, "The U.S. can no longer be depended upon to keep its word," and to the Communists, "The U.S. has no answer to your aggression through wars of 'national liberation'." The war is cruel, the fighting is bitter. However, it is less of a price to pay than an eventual thermonuclear holocaust which could take place if the U.S. allows aggression to go unchecked.

In probably one of the most commendable actions taken by the Student Council yet this year, it declared our support for the nation's policies. At a time when some of the members of our generation are so outspoken in protest against the United States in Vietnam, it is commendable that our Associated Students Council has gone on record in its support.

It sometimes appears that many of the campus rebels across the nation do not understand the reasons for our present action in the war, or comprehend the importance of our nation's part there. However, let us not be quick in our judgements. I believe we should be outspoken in our support of the U.S., but, at the same time, we as individuals must know why we are doing so. let us not join in a frenzy of "flag waving" without being able to give reason for our actions. To do so would be as unimpressive as entering into uninformed placard waving of the other side. It is not enough to support the war. We must know why we are doing so. Each individual should read more about Vietnam and be informed. We should not and must not ostracize those who cannot agree with U.S. policy, but, rather approach the matter ready to show reasons for our own actions.
